Abercrombie & Fitch

Abercrombie

Now more than ever, customer loyalty is a brand's most valuable asset

FIVE TRENDS THAT ARE SHAPING THE LOYALTY LANDSCAPE

Rising Customer Acquisition Costs

With privacy laws limiting marketer's ability to target ads, it's becoming more difficult to get a return on advertising spend, forcing brands to refocus on CLV.

Death of the 3rd Party Cookie

The deprecation of the 3rd Party Cookie will drive brands to find ways to incentivize data sharing at the individual level.

Commerce Everywhere

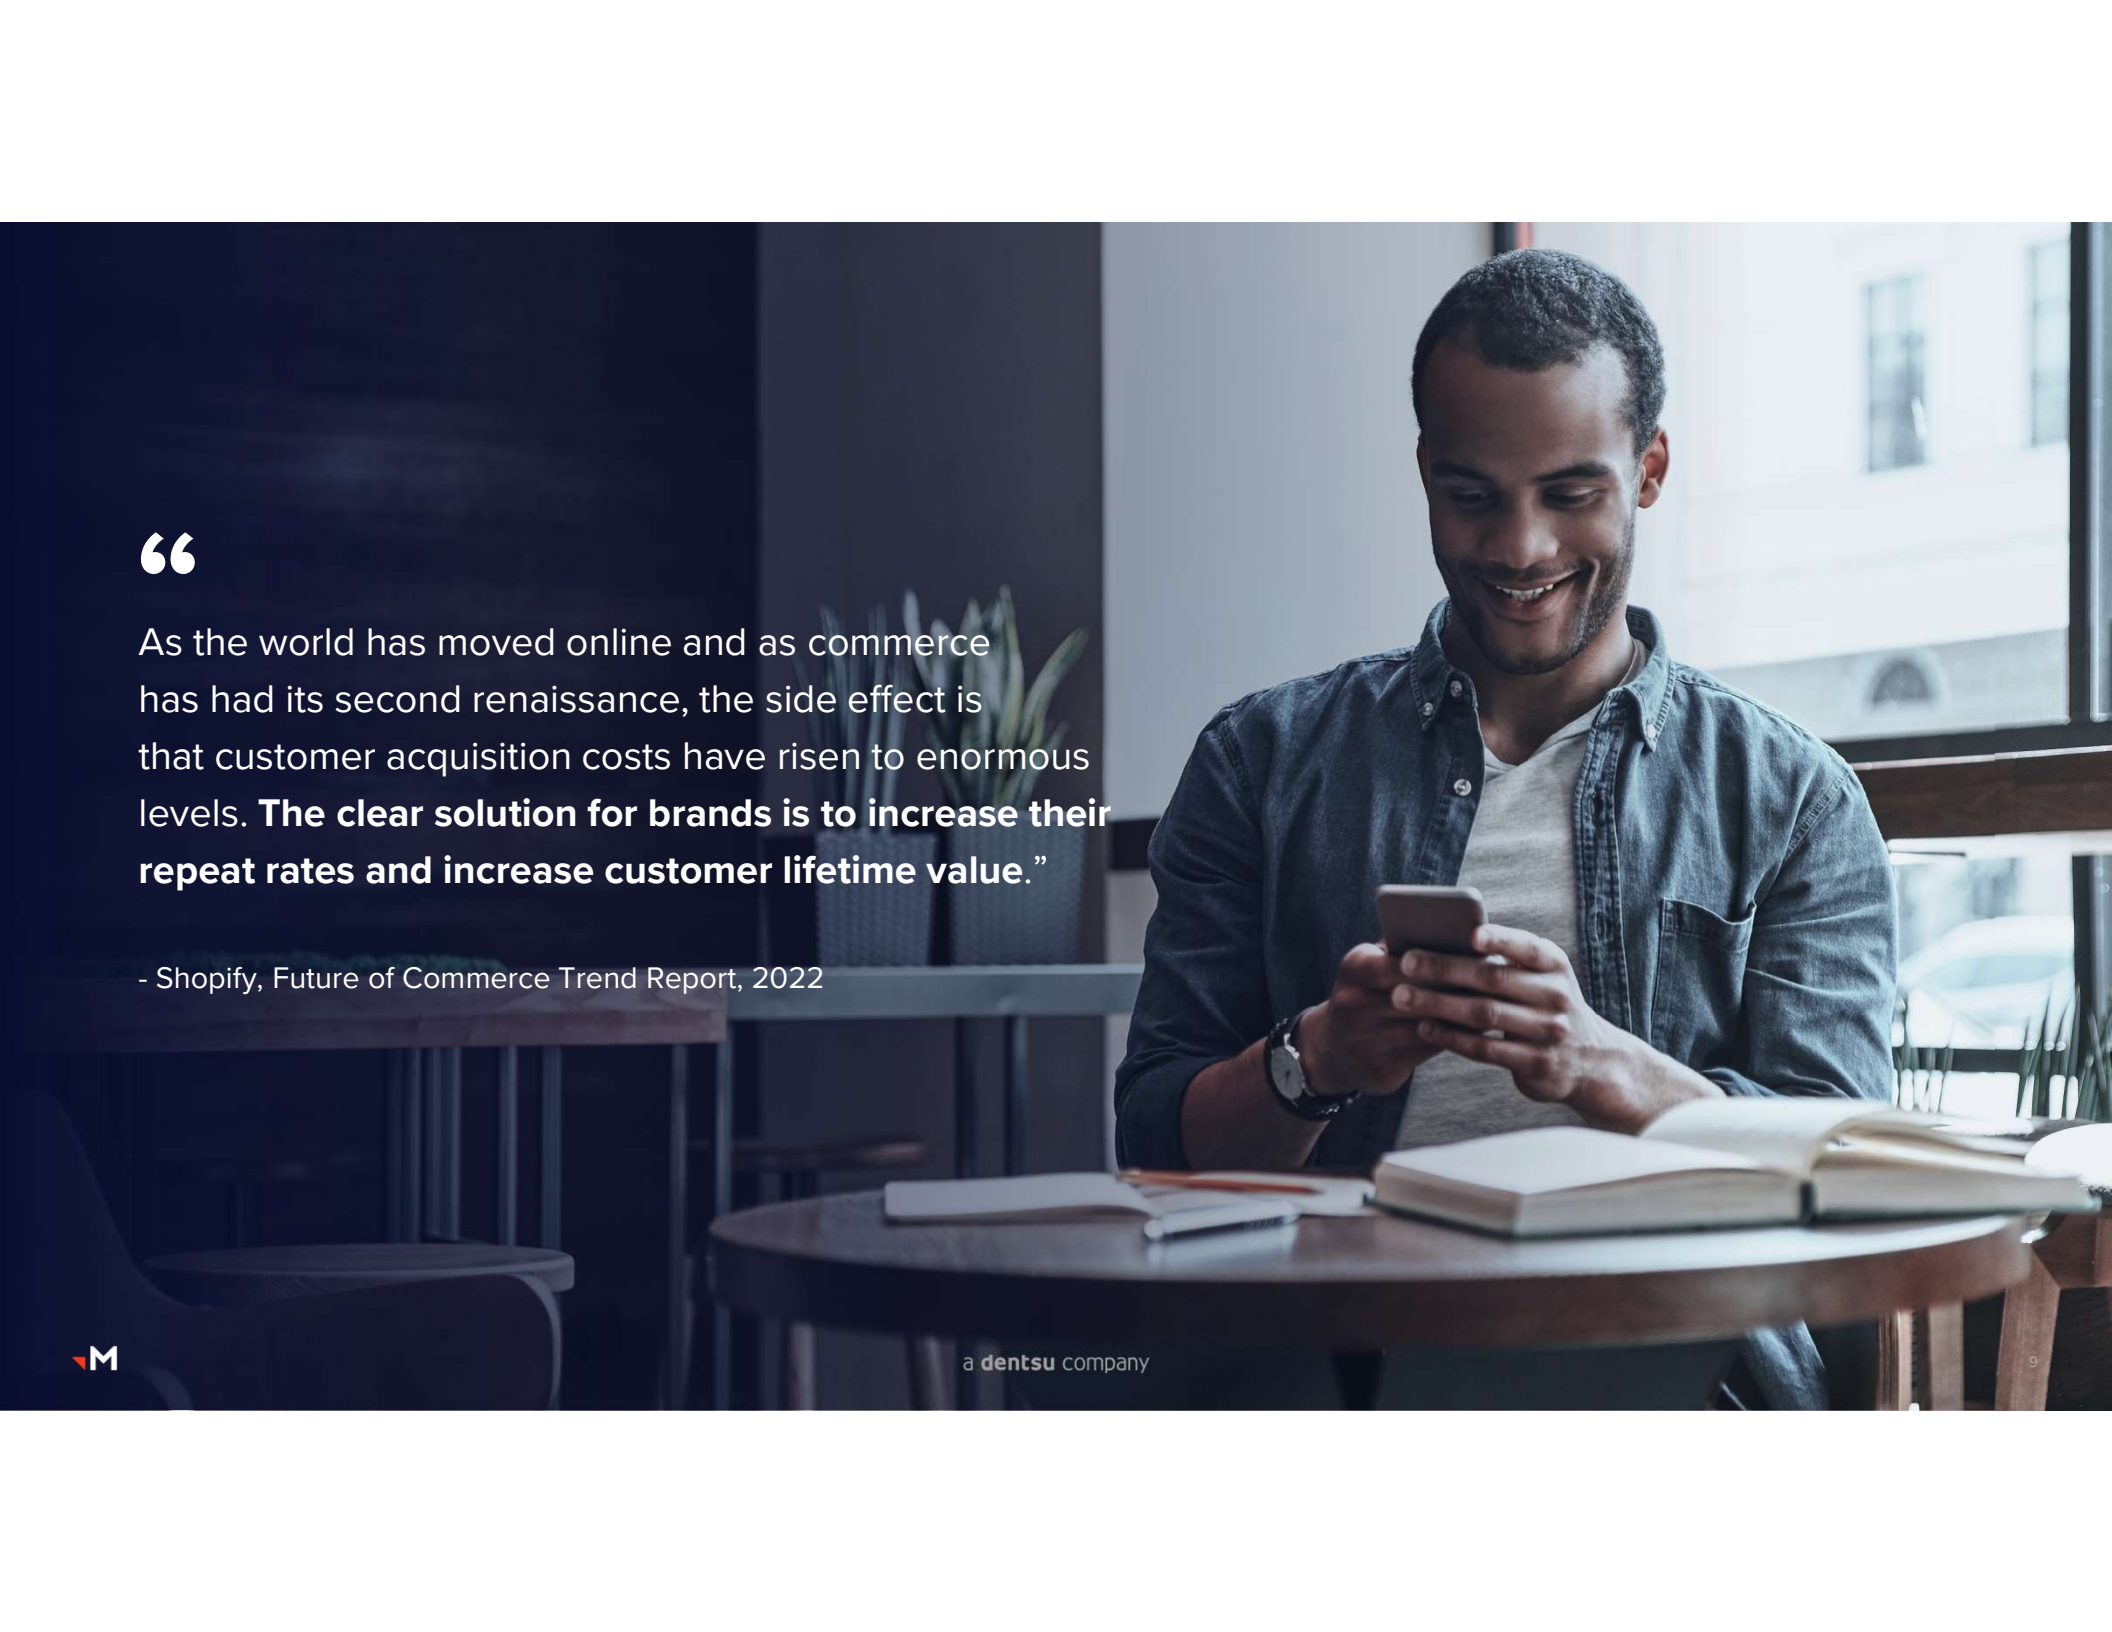

The line between physical and digital commerce will disappear, putting pressure on the omnichannel experience.

Fragmentation and Compression of Decision-making

The battle for consumer attention will heat up creating a need for more effective customer journey management.

Trust Becomes the New Brand Currency

Trust will become the currency that fuels commerce, leading brands to (re)define themselves based on human values.

As the world has moved online and as commerce has had its second renaissance, the side effect is that customer acquisition costs have risen to enormous levels. The clear solution for brands is to increase their repeat rates and increase customer lifetime value.”

- Shopify, Future of Commerce Trend Report, 2022

Transactional loyalty is now table stakes.

It's imperative to leverage technology in the service of building relationships, not just enabling faster and easier purchases.

Transactional Loyalty

- Focus on speed of purchase, task-based convenience
- Strictly viewing loyalty as points and rewards

Human Loyalty®

- Focus on the total customer experience, extending beyond the transaction
- Adaptive to consumers' needs for more intuitive, more meaningful experiences

Loyalty program participation continues to increase

Consumer loyalty program enrollment is up significantly vs. our last report with 77% of respondents belonging to up to 5 programs. And participants continue to find value from them with 93% indicated they recently earned a reward.

Survey Question

How many loyalty or rewards programs do you belong to? How many of those programs did you earn or redeem a reward from in the past 6 months?

2022

67%

Belong to up to 5 programs

94%

say they earned or redeemed a reward in the past 6 months

2024

77%

Belong to up to 5 programs

93%

say they earned or redeemed a reward in the past 6 months

- Merkle 2024 Loyalty Barometer

Companies view loyalty as essential to overcome inflation and economic uncertainty

Free and paid loyalty programs deliver similar outcomes; however, brand expectations are higher for those enrolled in paid programs. The likelihood to engage with a brand because of paid program participation is also significantly higher for paid program members.

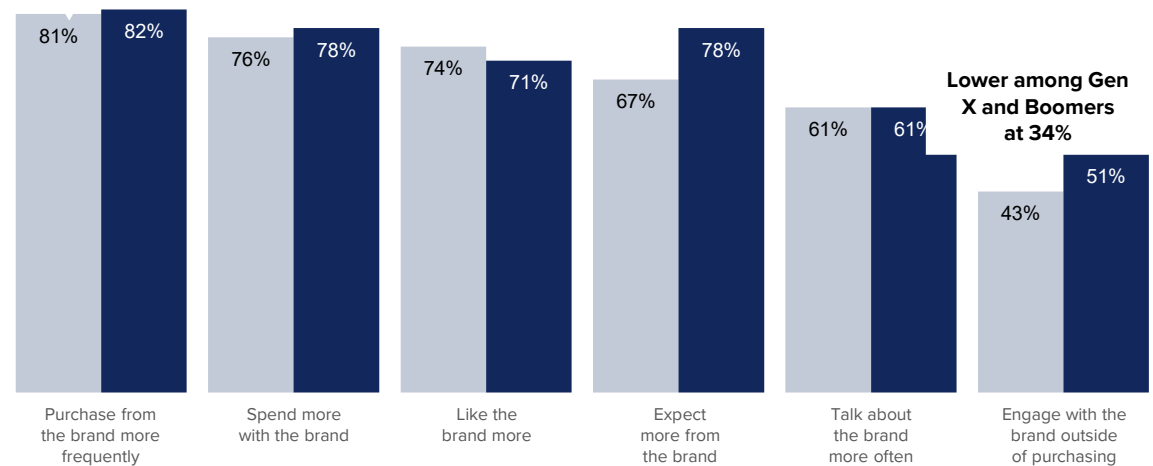

Survey Question

Indicate your likelihood to do the following things because of your participation in a free loyalty program or paid loyalty program. (Top two box)

Free Paid

Slightly higher among Millennials at 85%

- Merkle 2024 Loyalty Barometer

a dentsu company

By 2026, customer loyalty programs that offer a mix of transactional and experiential benefits will displace programs that solely focus on just offering customers points.”

“One in three businesses without a loyalty program today will establish one by 2027 to shore up first-party data collection and retain high-priority customers.”

- 2023 Gartner Market Guide for Loyalty Program Vendors

How we think about loyalty

BEHAVIORAL LOYALTY

A measure of whether an existing customer wants to keep transacting with a brand, with a focus on repeat purchases.

EMOTIONAL LOYALTY

A disposition that indicates brand favorability, willingness to engage, and a reflection of the trust and relationship a customer has with the brand.

Behavioral

More reactive,
focused on driving short-term
transactions with customers

Do / Get

Emotional

More proactive,
focused on creating long-term
relationships with customers

Feel / Do

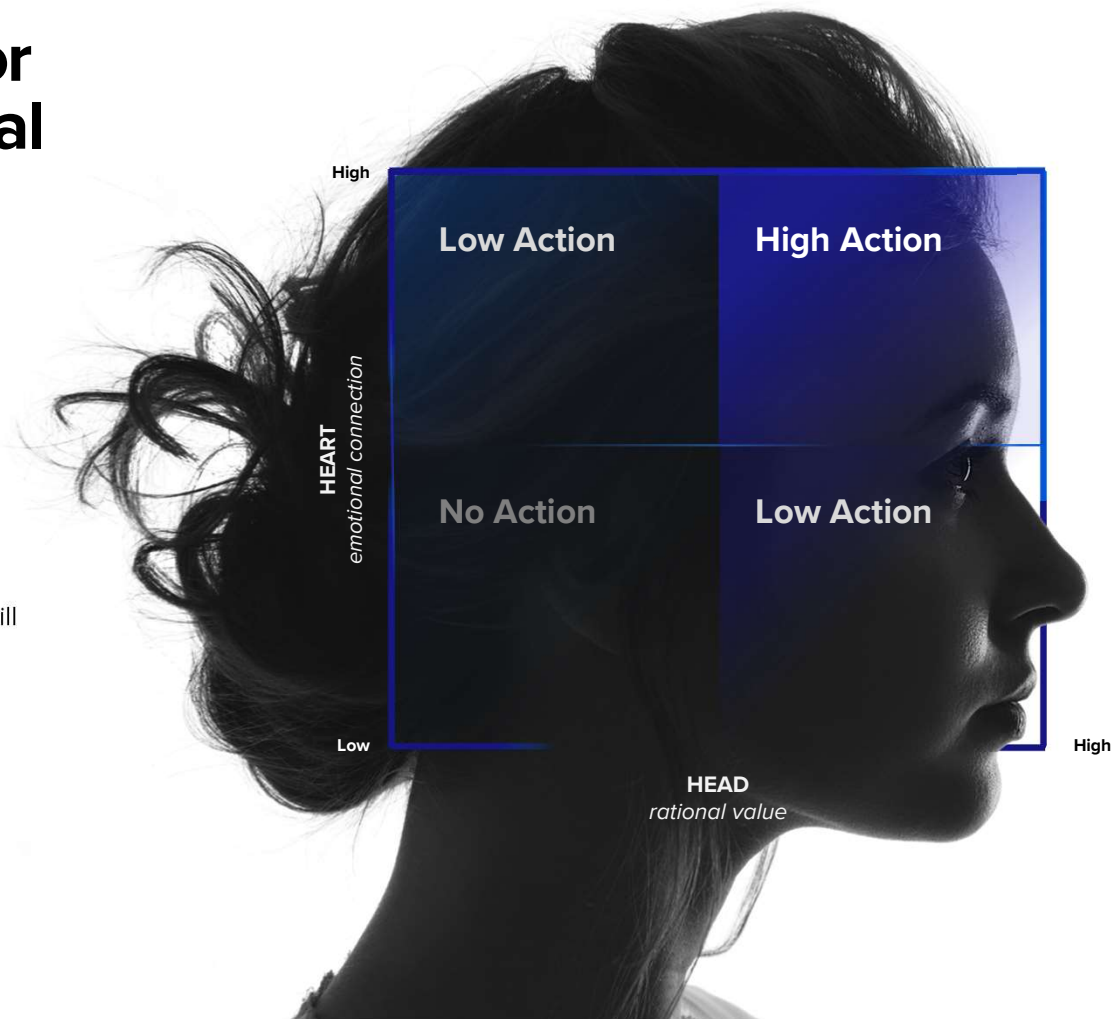

a dentsu company

Brands need both behavior and emotional loyalty

Behavioral loyalty programs deliver rational value but create low action relationships that are susceptible to switching.

Brands that appeal to the head and the heart are the ones that will achieve enduring loyalty.

LOW HEAD / HIGH HEART

- Very positive attitude towards a brand, BUT does not engage frequently
- Difficult to influence because there are factors out of the brand's control (e.g., limited product features or too difficult to set up)

HIGH HEAD / HIGH HEART

- Regularly and repeated engagement of products or services from the same brand
- Recommend and refer the brand to others
- Less susceptible to competitors

HIGH HEAD / LOW HEART

- Likely to engage with competitors
- Cost and convenience are big influencing factors

Our loyalty experience management approach transforms customer loyalty

The Merkle approach to loyalty goes beyond programs and transactions, transforming loyalty from a siloed program to a strategy that is fully integrated into the customer experience. We call this approach Loyalty Experience Management (LXM).

LXM enables brands to move from a fixed campaign strategy to a cohesive, emotionally intelligent, technology-enabled ecosystem that leverages profile and interaction data to anticipate consumer needs across the experience journey, delivering carefully curated moments of value that are informed by data, contextually relevant, and seamlessly assimilated into the customer's lifestyle.

It results in emotional connection, recognition, and increased trust for consumers, and increased value and revenue for brands.

Loyalty Program Assessment

WHAT IT IS

As an optional part of the implementation, Merkle's loyalty program design experts can assess the loyalty program design against proprietary benchmarks, best practices, leader and competitor programs, and customer expectations to ensure there are no gaps in the program design and to highlight potential optimization areas.

WHY IT MATTERS

In the US alone, companies spend over $2B / year on loyalty programs. However, according to research by Capgemini, over 77% of programs fail within the first 2 years. The assessment ensures there are no gaps in the program design and highlights optimization areas, too, so the program's ongoing performance is as smooth as the implementation.

Investment:
$50,000

Timing:
4 weeks, concurrent with implementation timing

HOW TO GET STARTED

LOYALTY PARTNERSHIPS

Enhance the value of your loyalty program with a partnership

DATE XX, 2025

The battle for consumer attention is heating up

Today's consumers are value-driven, hyper-connected, and loyalty-aware. They move fluidly across paid and owned channels, devices, and platforms, and they expect loyalty to follow.

Many loyalty programs are static by comparison, relying on a fixed campaign approach that misses key inflection points in the relationship. Additionally, outdated rewards strategies fail to create a compelling value proposition to garner attention.

To win consumer attention, brands must not only provide value they must also incentivize repeat engagement.

Product: Merkury Tag

Boost Loyalty Outcomes with Merkury Tag

Increase loyalty member acquisition and program engagement by identifying users and delivering personalized calls to action

© 2025 Merkle, Inc. All Rights Reserved. Confidential.

Merkury Tag for Loyalty Programs

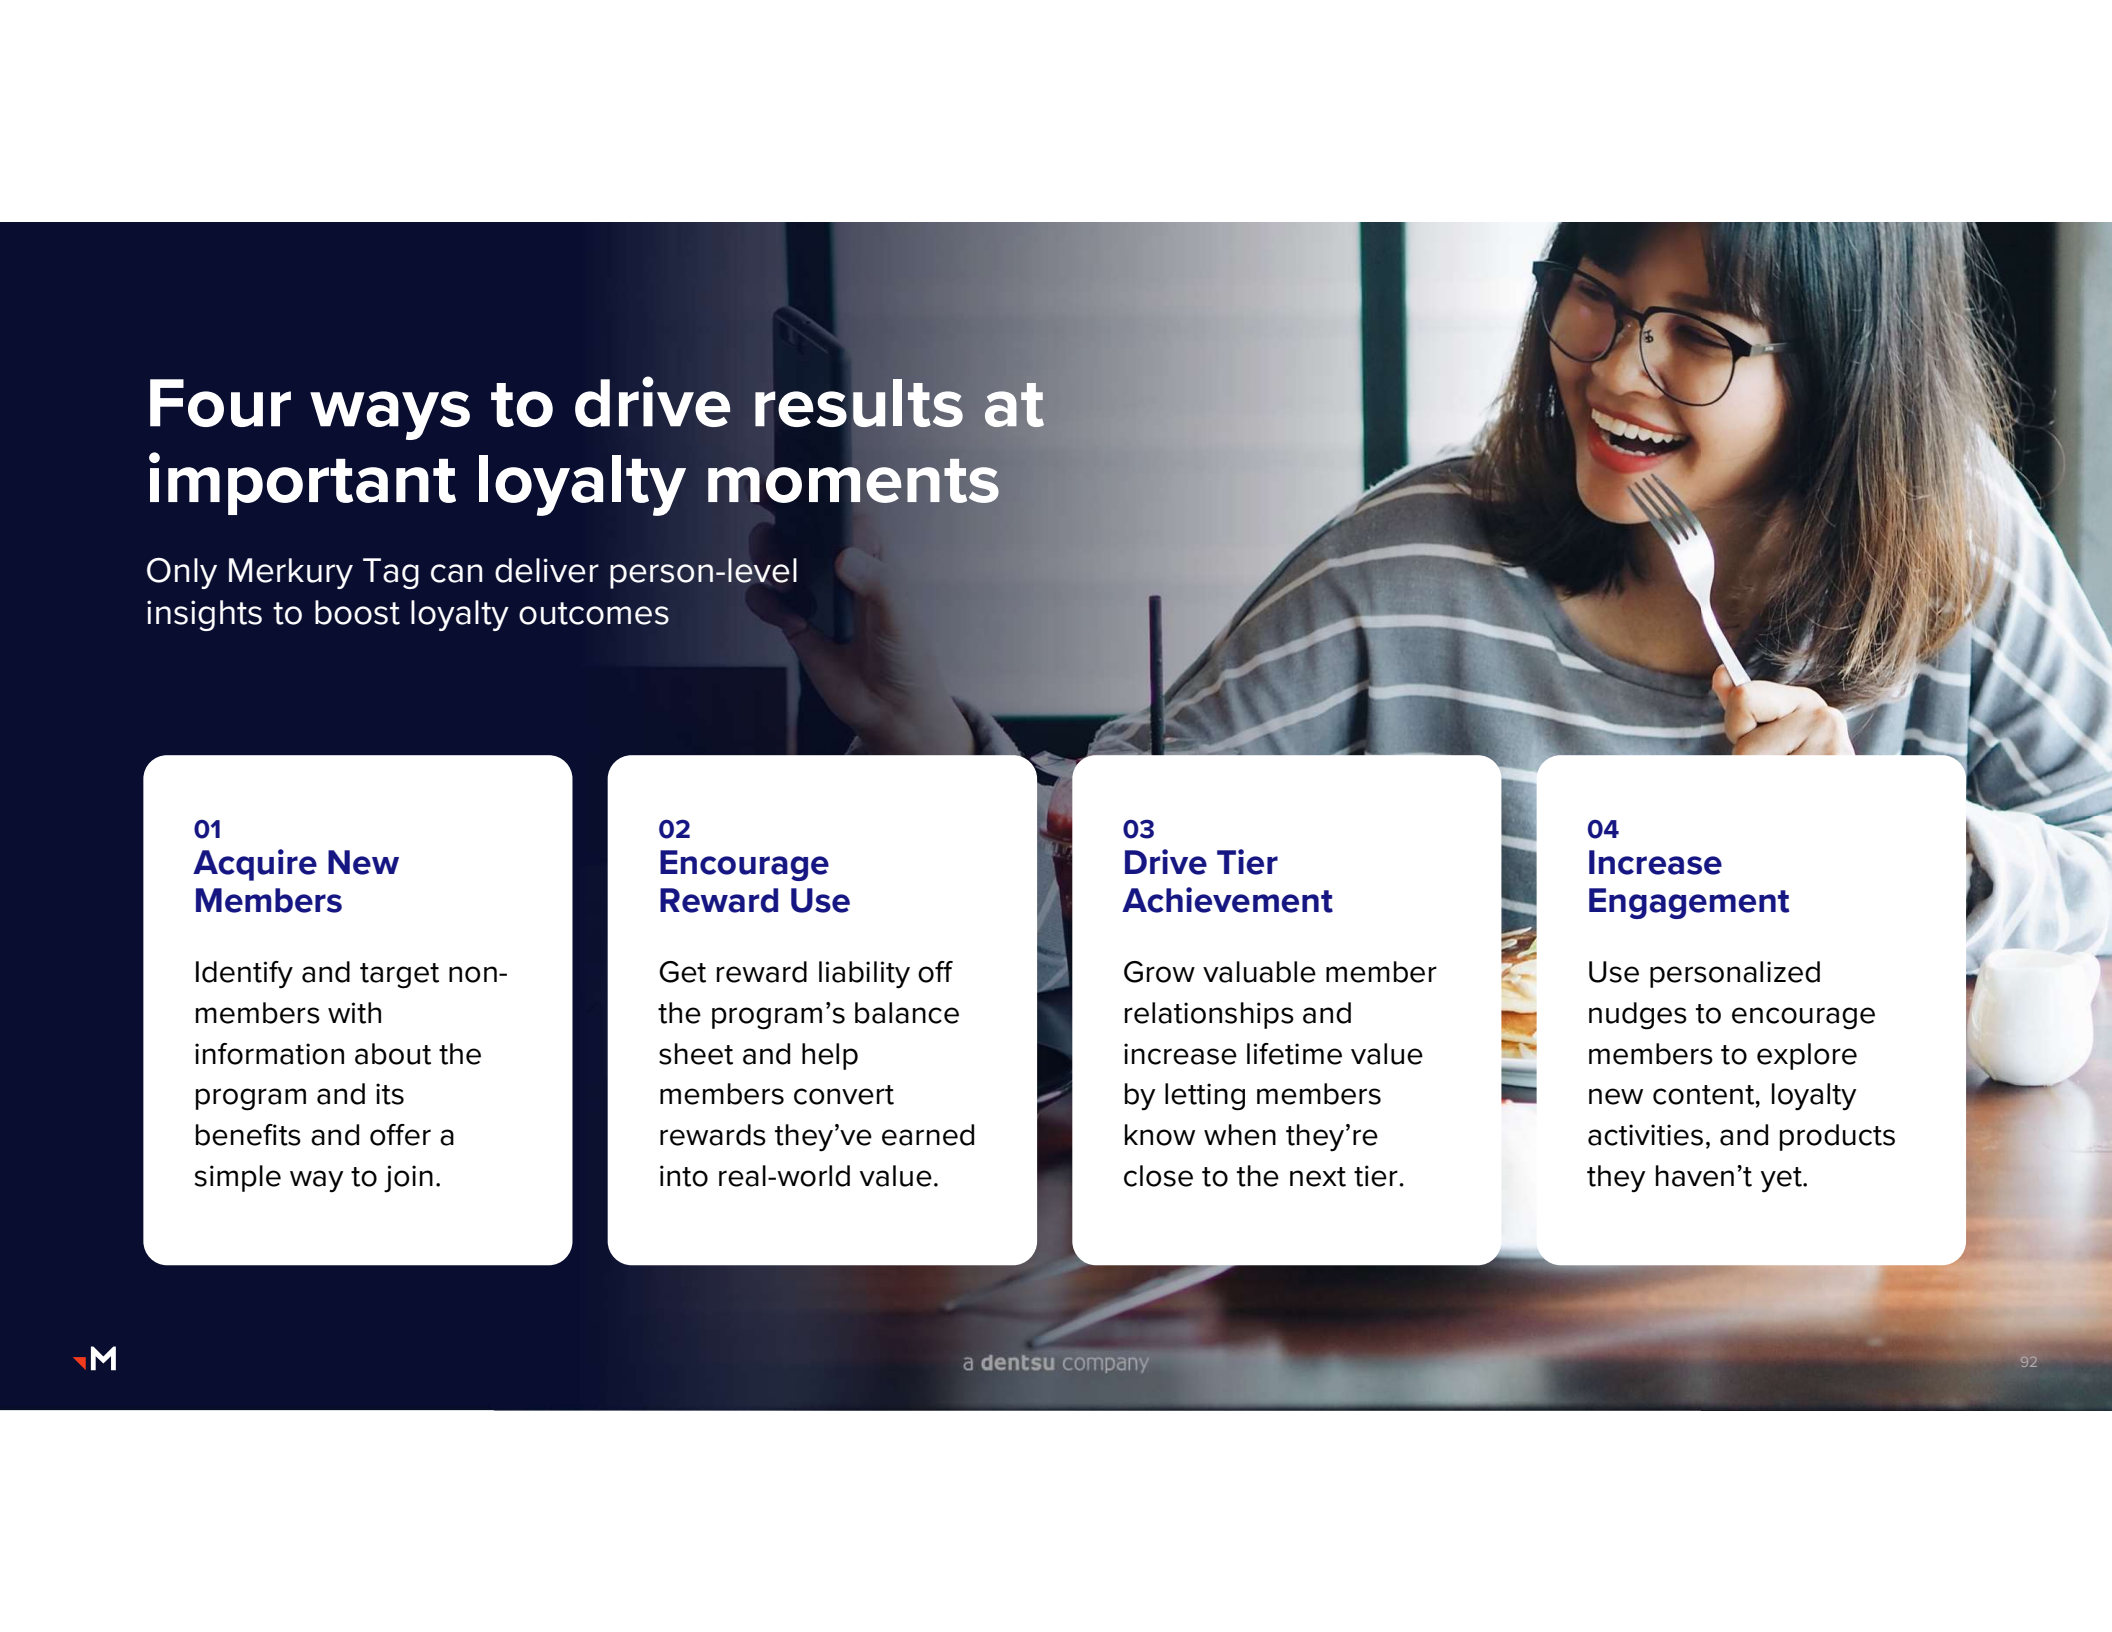

Merkury Tag enables privacy-compliant, person-based identification of anonymous website visitors to help brands deliver personalized loyalty experiences that drive results.

Merkury Tag is a must-have for personalized loyalty.

It uses a small embedded website component and integration with the brand's loyalty database to identify and recognize members when they visit the brand website, enabling personalized content and calls to action.

Merkury Tag determines anonymous visitors' loyalty status and attributes.

The result is a targeted loyalty engagement strategy that delivers real-time, personalized website content and calls to action to drive new member enrollments, reward redemptions, and conversions.

Four ways to drive results at important loyalty moments

Only Merkury Tag can deliver person-level insights to boost loyalty outcomes

01 Acquire New Members

Identify and target non-members with information about the program and its benefits and offer a simple way to join.

02 Encourage Reward Use

Get reward liability off the program's balance sheet and help members convert rewards they've earned into real-world value.

03 Drive Tier Achievement

Grow valuable member relationships and increase lifetime value by letting members know when they're close to the next tier.

04 Increase Engagement

Use personalized nudges to encourage members to explore new content, loyalty activities, and products they haven't yet.

Merkury Tag for Loyalty: How it Works

Real-time identification resolved to known members or non-members to target website content and experiences

STEP 1

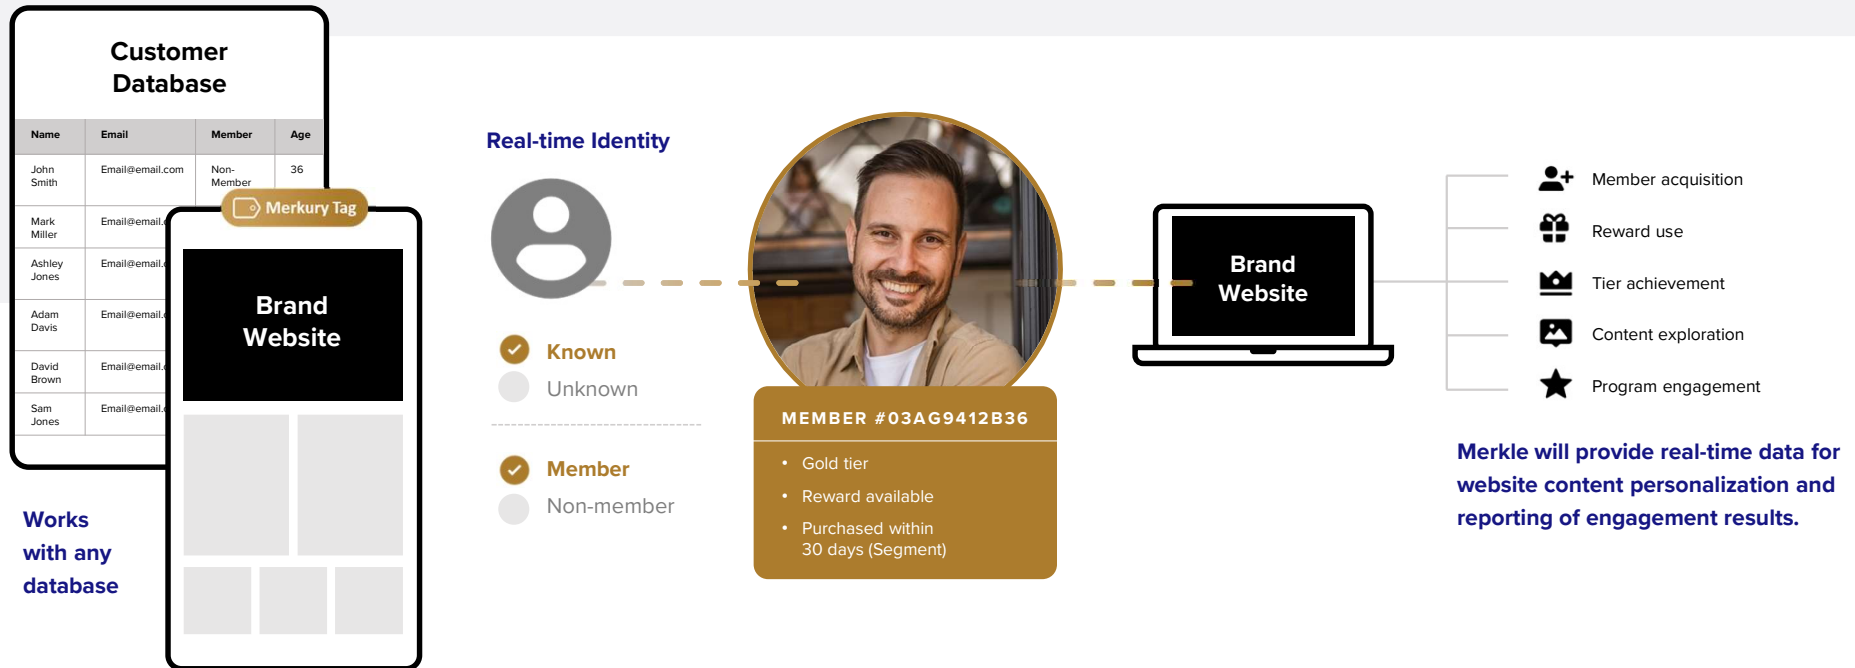

Merkury Tag is embedded on brand website and Merkury is connected to brand's master customer or loyalty member database.

STEP 2

When anonymous users visit the brand website, Merkury resolves identity in real time to either a known member or non-member.

STEP 3

Website content and calls to action can be customized and targeted to acquire non-members and better engage existing members.

Restaurant Loyalty Program

BUSINESS CHALLENGE

This mature loyalty program experienced a slowdown in new member acquisition, reduced engagement among some member segments, and wanted to increase transaction volume as well.

MERKLE SOLUTION

A three-month POC integrating the Merkury Tag into the brand's website and customer database to drive the highest possible member enrollments, reward redemptions, and order conversions for the program.

Along with real-time identification through the Merkury Tag, Merkle is also providing strategy, content, creative, and analytics services to design and deliver personalized calls to action and measure results.

IMPACT

Targeted calls to action are driving monumental lift in key loyalty actions at POC midpoint:

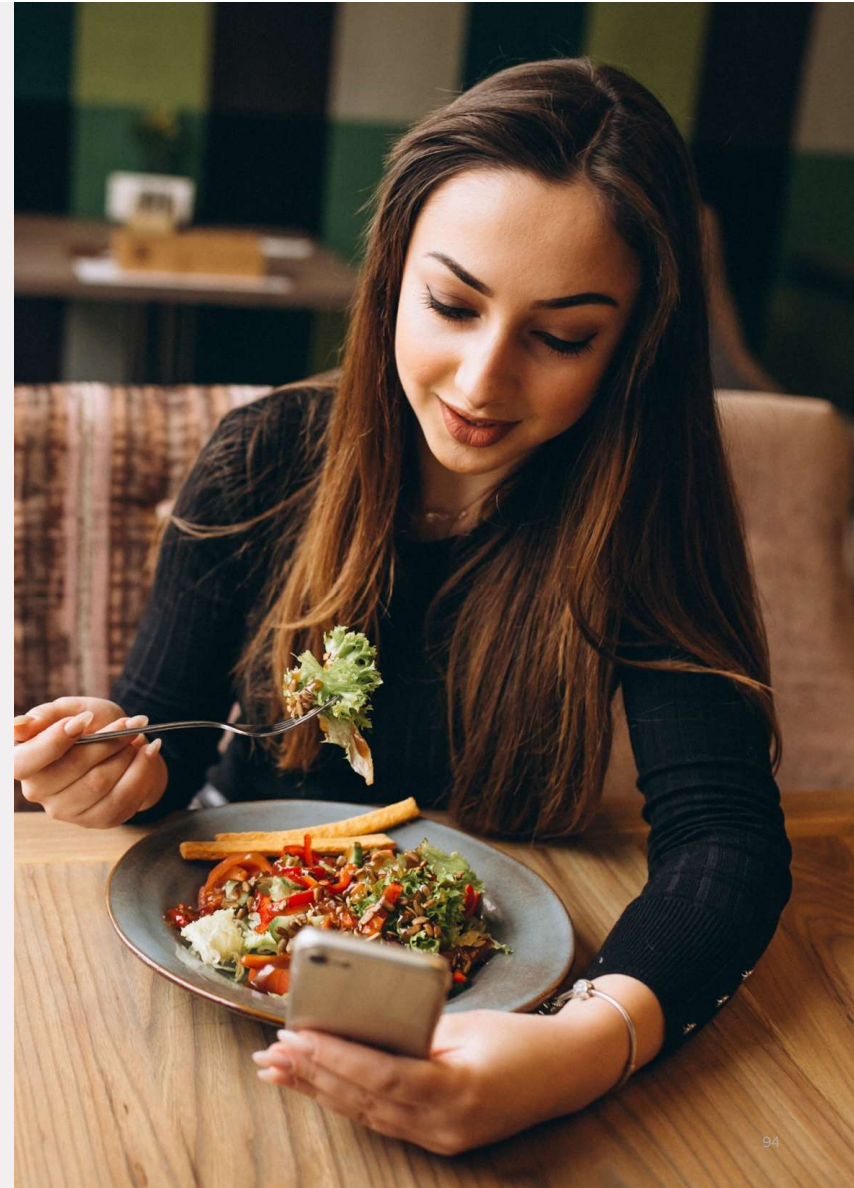

More than 5X higher
new member enrollments

800%+ increase
in reward redemptions

7% increase in average order values

Buyers & Industries

PRIMARY AUDIENCE

CMO, CTO, CDO, VP Marketing, VP Loyalty, Director Marketing, Director Loyalty

Loyalty buyers have different seniority levels depending on the organization, but they are all focused on acquiring and retaining customers and growing lifetime value.

C-suite leaders often handle loyalty as part of overall brand marketing and customer experience, so they are thinking about the “big picture” and what their org needs to do to drive growth and support customer experiences across channels. Those on the technical side are typically looking for platform/SaaS solutions to enable these experiences seamlessly within the brand’s tech stack. Senior leaders think more about loyalty as part of the overall CX, vs as a “program.” They are budget owners for larger investments like instantiating a loyalty program, investing in a SaaS platform, and retaining agency services.

Director-level leaders are involved in the day-to-day of managing loyalty programs and related campaigns/initiatives, so they are thinking about the customer experience, but they are also more closely tied into the performance of the program, delivering experiences that will drive their KPIs, working with vendors they can gain loyalty expertise from, and managing the performance of offers, rewards, promotions, etc.. They are sometimes budget owners at the campaign level, so can fund a specific offer or rewards.

OUTCOMES OBSESSION

We are obsessed with outcomes. From maximizing the return on value of technology investments to delivering data-driven strategies for measurable business improvement, our performance heritage fuels our focus. Outline how this offering drives metrics that matter for prospects.

Outcome	Why it Matters
Member Acquisition / Cost of Acquisition	A large loyalty member base gives brands a wealth of useful data about their best customers, including comprehensive profiles and preferences. Often this customer data can be monetized (i.e. within a retail media network). Using incentives like loyalty points/rewards to acquire new members costs less than paid media acquisition methods.
Customer Lifetime Value	Loyalty programs offer incentives around purchases, and program features like tiers encourage members to “move up” ultimately by spending more with the brand.
Emotional Loyalty	Beyond transaction/frequency, our scoring model ties emotion and sentiment to loyalty behavior.

TARGET INDUSTRIES

Describe specific industries or verticals where this offering is particularly relevant.

Industry	Why it Matters	What to listen for	Do we have vertical-specific content?
Retail	Representing the largest number of our loyalty clients, retailers need fresh, exciting ways to keep customers coming back.	• My existing program has plateaued • I have lots of inactive members • I want to do something more than just discount • I need to drive incremental revenue	We have case studies/examples that are vertical-focused. Some of our solutions have a vertical lens, i.e., if a particular capability is more relevant to one industry or another.
Restaurant/ QSR	Restaurant loyalty is a very crowded space, but programs are often the least mature, transactional or discount based (i.e., punch card).	• I am in a race to the bottom with couponing • I need to build a customer database, and I don't know very many of my customers • My existing program has plateaued • I need to drive day-part • I need to drive product sales and trial	In general, our content can be used for any industry and tweaked with examples or insights to resonate with a particular client/prospect.
CPG	Brands are now tasked with building direct customer relationships, no longer relying on the retailer, so loyalty programs are a key way to collect customer data, develop relationships and own the engagement.	• I want to own the relationship with my customers and understand what they are looking for from me • I need to build a customer database, and I don't know very many of my customers • My existing program has plateaued • I need to drive product sales and trial
Software and Technology	For these brands, loyalty is about continuity and use/utility, so leans more toward feature awareness, education, gamification, incentives.	• I need to retain customers and make my product addictive/must-have • I am rolling out new features, and I need to educate my customers and drive trial • My customers don't purchase frequently, but I need to keep them engaged so they stay

Merkle's products, including GenCX and Merkury, offer industry-leading capabilities. Many offerings leverage these products to deliver strengthened client outcomes. Having Merkle-owned platforms in use client-side also strengthens our relationships with key clients.

Outline the products used in this offering. Include commercial considerations (eg if separate licensing is needed).

MERKLE PRODUCTS

Product	HOW IT'S USED	KEY OUTCOMES	COMMERCIAL CONSIDERATIONS
LoyaltyPlus™	Merkle's SaaS loyalty management platform hosts loyalty programs globally. In addition to our alliance with Salesforce and capabilities around Loyalty Management platform, we also build and host programs on our own platform.	• Host global reward programs • Own the "points ledger" for the program and track all earn events, points, rewards, offers, etc for members based on program business rules • Enable clients to self-manage program elements like offers, rewards, promotions, or support day-to-day with managed services	Implementations on LoyaltyPlus(TM) are quoted based on feature set and services. Platform license tier is based on number of program members.
Merkury Tag	Merkury Tag is embedded on a brand's website to identify anonymous visitors and support loyalty use cases: acquire new members, encourage reward use, drive tier achievement, increase engagement	• Identify more anonymous customers so loyalty content can be personalized • Drive loyalty acquisition among non-members • Increase reward use • Drive tier achievement	Can be implemented with a new program or added to an existing one for a set-up fee. Tag license on client's website (monthly) is based on number of monthly site sessions (visits).
Promotion Overlays	Promotion overlays are gamification campaigns that run in conjunction with existing loyalty programs and drive key member behaviors. They are a key way to make loyalty programs less transactional and more fun/engaging for members.	• New member acquisition • Data capture (profile enhancement) • Engagement with program or its features • Retention of existing members • Build excitement around new ways to earn	These are full-service promotion deployments. Pricing is quoted based on promotion type and features. May be sold a la carte or as a bundle of multiple promotions aligned to loyalty calendar.
